

HOLMES' ORDEAL.

His Trial Begun For Murder of Benjamin F. Pietzel.

AT REPLETE WITH SENSATIONS.

For the Defense Failing to Secure a Continuance of the Trial Withdraw From the Case—Prisoner Refuses to Accept Counsel Named by the Court, Will Plead His Own Cause.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 29.—H. H. Holmes, or Herman Mudgett, which is his baptismal name, was put on trial in the court of oyer and terminer yesterday for the murder of Benjamin F. Pietzel, in this city, on Sept. 1, 1894, and the developments of the first day verified better, perhaps, than ever before the force of the maxim that truth is stranger than fiction. From the nature of the case, and the sensational currency during the past year, a sensational revelations were not expected, when he, who has come to be regarded as the most skillful and audacious criminal of modern times, was placed on trial for his life. What did occur in court so far surpassed all expectations that the most vivid flights of imagination could have conceived the developments. Protestations and entreaties for a continuance of the trial summarily overruled the sudden withdrawal of the lawyers who had hitherto represented the prisoner, in the face of threats of dishonor, the appointment by the court of new counsel and the refusal by the prisoner to accept them as his defense, the declaration of another lawyer to serve, after being selected by Holmes, and finally the prisoner trying on his own case. This, not to speak of many dramatic passages at arms between Holmes and the commonwealth's prosecuting officer, is a summary of what occurred.

Holmes, who, at the time of his arrest in Boston on Nov. 17 last, was a stocky, but man of middle height, had, here his long confinement, grown gaunt and hollow chested. The prisoner, who was in the dock, had a deathlike pallor, heightened by a long, closely cropped beard. In appearance as he sat in the dock, he was a pathetic sight. The beard was carefully trimmed, the hair smoothly parted and the black chevrons still he wore betrayed no spot or blemish.

His demeanor throughout, save on two or three occasions, when he gave way to slight bursts of anger, directed at the district attorney, was characterized by the marvelous display of nerve which has become associated with his name.

The selection of a jury consumed several hours. Holmes freely exercising his prerogative of challenge, and after 13 men had been secured a recess was taken. The afternoon session was devoted largely to District Attorney Graham's opening address to the jury, in which he outlined the case in detail and presented the prisoner to a searching examination. Holmes, however, was unresponsive, and sat with his hands crossed calmly taking notes. He was granted permission to have light and writing material in his cell to aid him in preparing his defense, and to see to the woman whom Mr. Graham accused to have in court this morning.

ANOTHER KILLING

Of Armenians Reported Near Trebizond.

THE VILLAGERS FLED IN TERROR

And Were Shot Down as They Ran—Men and Women Harmed at the Stake—Captives Females Outraged—Churches Desecrated—Conflicting Stories as to Origin of the Slaughter.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 29.—Another terrible massacre of Armenians, accompanied by the outraging of women, is reported to have occurred in the Baidurt district between Erzeroum and Trebizond.

A mob of about 500 Mussulmans and Lazzes, the great majority of whom were armed with Martini-Henry rifles, made an attack upon the Armenians inhabiting several villages of that vicinity and set fire to their houses and schools.

As the Armenians fled in terror from their dwellings they were shot down as they ran, and a number of men and women who were captured by the rioters, it is added, were fastened to stakes and burned alive.

The Armenian women who fell into the hands of the mob, it is also asserted, were Outraged and Brutally Mutilated. It is also stated that the churches were desecrated and the villages pillaged, the cattle and all of the portable property of any value belonging to the Armenians being carried off by the marauders.

During the disturbance 150 Armenians are reported to have been killed. The surviving villagers applied to the governor of Baidurt for protection who, after hearing their complaint, sent three policemen to the scene of the massacre after the slaughter was ended.

The Ringleaders Known.

The Turkish officials, it is claimed, know the ringleaders of the outbreak, but apparently no steps have been taken to arrest them. ## CABINET RESIGNS.

French Chamber Refuses Vote of Confidence.

PARTIALITY SHOWN EVILDOERS.

Senators, Deputies and Others Close to Government Alleged to Have Made Large Profits Out of South of France Railroad Syndicate. Minister of Justice Called on For Documents.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—In the chamber of deputies M. Rouanet, who has been prominent in exposing those who were connected with the Panama canal and Southern railroad syndicates, questioned the government regarding the South of France railroad scandal, it being alleged that a number of senators, deputies and others have made large profits out of the company by fair or unfair means. He demanded that the minister of justice, M. Trarieux, publish the documents in the case, which were in his possession, and which would thoroughly enlighten the chamber on the subject.

Mr. Trarieux denied that he had long had in his possession documents which desired the arrest of M. Edmond Magnier, formerly senator of the Var and recently editor in chief of The Event, who was recently sentenced to a term of imprisonment for having received part of the profits of the syndicate. Continuing the minister of justice said that whenever the government believed it had incriminating evidence, it had prosecuted the parties involved. No deputy, he added, was included among the guilty parties. Amid continual radical interruptions M. Trarieux managed to say in addition that several names were known to the government as having figured in the report of the expert, M. Flory, the official accountant, who made an inquiry into the finances of the South of France railroad. He was interrupted by excited cries of "names," "names," "names."

In reply M. Trarieux said: "Rouvier, Julia Roche, Etienne, Delouche, Paul d'Amiens and others."

When he was able to make himself heard the minister of justice added that the majority of those whose names had been mentioned had explained their position, and he concluded with the remark: "The chamber knows the truth and if parliament considers its dignity and honor compromised, the government will join the chamber in voting for repressive measures, and in the face of these explanations, asks the chamber for a vote of confidence."

The order of the day, pure and simple, was then submitted to the chamber and rejected by a vote of 406 to 105. M. Loubet then moved that the chamber vote to prohibit members of parliament from joining the financial syndicates. The motion was accepted by the premier, M. Ribot, and was adopted unanimously. Later, M. Rouanet submitted a motion demanding that full light be thrown upon the South of France railroad scandal, asking the government to prosecute all those who have been found to be implicated in them, and submit to the chamber the report of the expert who inquired into the finances of the company.

M. Ribot thereupon said it was too late to submit the expert's report, and as to the prosecutions, he added, the work of justice had been accomplished and could not be re-opened. M. Rouanet's motion asking for an explanation as to the partiality which had been shown towards those involved in the scandal, claiming that the authorities had been afraid to prosecute them, and demanding that the minister of justice publish the documents in the case which were in his possession, was then adopted by a vote of 275 to 196. After the adoption of this motion the ministers left the chamber of deputies in a body, amid shouts of "Radicals, radicals, and to the Elisee palace, where they handed in their resignations to President Faure. The chamber of deputies was adjourned for a week.

THE FROGS BOB UP.

THEY ORGANIZE FOR A SEASON OF SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENT.

Every Member of the Club Secures at Least One Office in the Organization. Details of the Meeting Are Shrouded in Secrecy.

The nine active members of the Frog club met at the office of the Marion Electric Light and Power company on Monday evening to map out a program of entertainments for the ensuing winter and to fill the three vacancies in the club caused by the removal from the city of active members who thus became honorary members.

The preliminary work of the croakers is usually kept under a heavy cloud of secrecy and Monday night's meeting was no exception to the rule, so all that was accomplished may never be known but a little information has been gleaned from this source and that.

PRESIDENT H. M. STOWE.

that the club is well named for judging by the noise made by the members on Monday night, they must have been playing leap frog with twenty-pound dumb-bells attached to their shoes.

Billy says that the first sign of any disturbance was a heavy pounding on the floor with a cross bar, after which the club, as one, repeated the mystic password "Snap poo, snap peter, philander go sneeter, snap poo," and that from that time on they had a hades of a time. Billy may not have followed the revised edition in his description of the occurrence but let that go.

As much as could be ascertained this morning was that the election of Frog Stowe as president for life, or during good behavior, for sterling ability as an organizer, as a parliamentarian and as a profound student of frog language, was ratified. The ratification of Frog Cunningham as vice president and Frog Hane as secretary and treasurer for like terms followed, but their peculiar qualifications for their respective offices were not to be discovered.

When the matter of the ratification of the election of Frog Duff came up trouble was threatened for it was the opinion of several that Frog Duff's hair was half a foot too short for a man who could justly make any pretensions to musical ability. That worthy croaker, however, called attention to his luxuriant mustache and the kickers threw up their hands.

Young to fill this position.

During the meeting the three vacancies were filled but as the acceptances have not been received the names of the new members are not given, although two of them are single gentlemen and one married, making the club membership equally divided as to Benedicts and bachelors. It was also decided that the first entertainment to be extended to the fair friends of the Frogs would be at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stowe, two weeks from tonight, unless the date is changed.

Steps were taken to secure permanent quarters in the club line order, after which the pass word, "snap-poo, snap-peter, philander go sneeter, snap-poo," having been again uttered in unison, the meeting adjourned just as the moon fell out of the sky.

The three gentlemen invited to join the club, Monday night, Messrs. C. B. Kling, A. F. McNeal and J. E. Phillips, at a late hour this afternoon sent in their acceptances and so the personnel of the club is as follows:

H. M. Stowe, T. M. Cunningham, H. B. Hane, J. S. Duff, M. A. Turney, E. K. Uhler, J. W. Nelson, V. E. Dombaugh, Sidney Young, C. B. Kling, A. F. McNeal and J. E. Phillips.

WHO THEY ARE.

Some of the Men Implicated in the Bucyrus Murder Known Here.

The fact that it was reported that a young Marion man was implicated in the murder at Bucyrus Sunday night, is to a certain degree true, certain of the men in the crowd being temporary residents of Marion. Quigley, Jackson and Sherrod were here off and on for five or six weeks during the fair. Quigley has been coming here for a number of years. He follows the fairs and wherever the crowds congregate Quigley is pretty sure to show up. He was at the Lattue street fair. While here he assumed another name and had a woman with him. Jackson and Sherrod were also with him in Marion. In this manner it was reported that they were citizens of this city.

By many it was thought that the man Quigley was either Andy or Jimmie Quigley, who have visited Marion at intervals for the past eight or ten years, but this is not so. Andy Quigley was in this city at the time of the murder, but Jimmie has not been heard from in this locality for about a year.

It is very likely that the entire gang had been here for several days after the Lattue fair, having come here on the Big Four the Saturday morning after that attraction was over.

Goes to the Pen.

A special dispatch from Delaware says that W. S. Winters, of Richmond, was sentenced to the penitentiary for fifteen months Monday afternoon by Judge Waight for "making out and presenting false and fraudulent claims for bounty script" to the county commissioners. There are ten other counts against Winters, each $210. This refers to the $1,500 "grab" made by him and James Cooley, now serving a sentence in the penitentiary. Judge Waight consented to allow Winters to remain with his wife and children in Richmond until Thursday, when he will start for Columbus.

THEY REGRET TO LOSE HIM.

Dalton, Ohio, Speaks Most Highly of W. H. Houghton, Who Comes Here.

Last week's issue of the Dalton Ohio Gazette noted the removal of Mr. W. H. Houghton, of the Schultz Wagon Co., to this city, to become superintendent of The National Wagon works. We quote the Gazette:

"None have gone away whose loss will be more keenly felt than that of Mr. Houghton. For the past three years and over he was the junior member of the Schultz Wagon Co., and much of the success of that enterprising firm during the immediate past is due to his energy, push and far seeing business qualities. He set the mark he wished to attain, high, and with commendable vim and aggressiveness overcame every obstacle in the way.

As a citizen and christian gentleman Mr. Houghton ranks high, and as a business man is above par, which fact is evidenced by the lucrative position tendered him and the confidence placed in him by the Marion firm for whom his energies will be directed in the future. Mr. H. removal is a matter of keen regret. We cannot estimate the worth of such citizens until they leave us. It was to our front in every respect for the advancement of our town and its interests the welfare of the community used his best endeavors in an honorable and upright manner for every project of a useful and elevating character. As a member of the council the past two years he was on the side of every proposed improvement, and one of the prime movers in securing to Dalton the system of water works now in course of construction.

Mr. Houghton is a member of the Presbyterian church, and there, as in everything he attempted, he was a worker and will be greatly missed.

The Mendelssohn Vocal Art Club.

The adjourned meeting of the Mendelssohn Vocal Art club met Monday evening in the studio of Prof. Cobb and completed its organization, which is as follows: For president, John Waddell; vice presidents, H. N. Quigley, Charles Lust, Lewis Rohlfman and Ed. London. The constitution and by-laws were read by Prof. Cobb and adopted by a unanimous vote.

A musical committee was then appointed, to solicit representations for membership from each church in the city, and there is no doubt but this club will be one of the most musical as well as instructive ever organized in Marion.

This club is to take part in the beautiful cantata, "Queen Esther," a vocal composition of several movements. Originally the cantata was for one voice, comprising airs and recitations, but now it frequently takes the form of a short oratorio or operetta, and it goes without saying that "Queen Esther" is one of the most beautiful compositions in this line ever written.

A large number of male singers throughout the city, representatives from all the churches, have shown a great desire to join the club, and will without doubt be present at the next meeting. It is desirable to have this club as large as its associate, the Cecilia club, both of which are to form the musical organization in presenting to the public this attractive operetta, "Queen Esther."

The local railroad men report that business is the best at present that it has been for a year, especially the north and south roads report a gratifying increase in traffic, caused principally from the large shipments of coal that are being made.

D. W. Cooke, the newly appointed assistant general passenger agent of the Erie, was in the city Monday night. F. W. Buskirk, the assistant passenger agent of the Chicago and Erie, and G. W. MacEdwards, traveling passenger agent of the Erie, were also in the city.

On November 1, George F. Davis, for many years general yardmaster of the Bee Line, and later having the St. Louis division's business under his supervision, is to be promoted to trainmaster of the Bee Line division of the Big Four, with headquarters at Bellefontaine.

Columbus Dispatch: Improvements are contemplated on the Erie which will bring the system up to a high standard and make it a formidable rival of the leading roads between Chicago and New York. In the near future it is proposed to spend a large sum of money in double-tracking the Chicago and Erie roads and laying heavier rails. Better equipment will be furnished, a new time card adopted and faster time made between the two cities.

Columbus Dispatch: The expected meeting of stockholders of the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking during the morning did not materialize and a postponement was decided on to November 6 at 11 a. m. The meeting was for the election of directors and officers under the re-organization plan but the failure Saturday afternoon to meet and increase the capital stock as arranged threw the election forward. The meeting to increase stock has been again set for Wednesday of this week and then the Wednesday following the election will take place. The story that the court at Bucyrus had been asked to refuse to confirm the sale by a telegram from New York until certain claims were filed seems to be a mystery at this end of the line, as both sides had agreed to a confirmation of the sale. It is understood, however, to have emanated from a New York attorney who was seeking to collect his fees, but it is not thought that it will have any serious effect in blocking the re-organization.

The cold wave made schedule time.

Look out for the political hypnotist.
 He's abroad.

Ohio rioters are learning that the lynching business is loaded.

Dear voter, for that tired, sarsaparilla feeling try the Australian ballot.

Bushnell, Jones and Hoyt today began a continuous campaign tour of the state.

It must be said of "General" Coxe that his campaign has cost him nothing in the way of reputation.

There is no evidence at hand to show that the Hon. Doc Norton has taken any of that peculiar powder that "glues
 the lips."

Of course the ladies understand that, notwithstanding this is "a campaign of education," the men will do all the voting this time.

There will not be much oratory in Marion county this week, but there will be any amount of hustling and tramping of grass.

Holmes, the multi-murderer, says his baptismal name is Mudgett. The jury will very likely determine that plain Mud will do under the circumstances.

Talk of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight being "pulled off" in private has given Governor Clarke further opportunity of making a few lightning
 changes of mind.

If Rev. Mr. Heoller could only find out what kind of a powder that was that "glued his lips," perhaps a long-suffering public might find relief by using it upon the campaign liars.

The weather is apt to be quite capricious at about this season of the year, and it would be no surprise if Mr.
 Brice would not require the services of a snow-plow to get his palace car out of the state after November 5.

A Philadelphia correspondent has taken up the case of H. H. Holmes, in which he min F. Pictzel. If he succeeds in clearing himself in Philadelphia some other place will have the pleasure of hang-

The street cleaning force is to be commended for its good work on Saturday night. To come up street on Sunday morning and find the paved streets clean, after a busy Saturday, is a comfort indeed. Our street cleaning isn't perfection yet, and cannot be expected to be so, but we want to give due praise to the Saturday night accomplishments.

Governor McKinley had a diversion from the monotony of a hard week's campaign by the riotous situation that developed at Tiffin through an effort to lynch the murderer of Marshal Schultz. The Governor permitted no delay in sending detachments of state troops off to Tiffin to preserve the law
 and maintain the dignity of the state.
 There is no foolishness in the make-up of Ohio's governor.

R. D. Dumm, formerly editor of the Democratic Mirror, and now editor of the Upper Sandusky Union-democratic, has contributed much to the gayety of the present campaign by references to the Brice candidacy. For instance Editor Dumm's latest issue contains this:

All democratic organ papers in Ohio
 will be edited, this week, by the Brice bureau at Columbus in interest of the repurchase of a seat in the U. S. senate for non-resident Brice. Watch the neighboring democratic organs and see how beautifully they all agree with the same editorials and the same lovely paragraphs. What must the intelligent, fair-minded reader think of each paper. Is it not a little reform—that harmful word to boodlers
 and boss politicians.

The Tiffin riot and unsuccessful attempt to hang the prisoner Martin, emphasizes the fact that when Judge Lynch wants to do any hanging in Ohio
 he must be mighty quick about it. It is to the credit of the state that her militia is always available on short notice when wanted to preserve the dignity of the law.

JOHN N. HOLMES

Files a Petition in Divorce Against Lizzie C. Holmes.

John N. Holmes, by his attorney,
 Chas. F. Garberson, filed one week ago
 Monday in the court of common pleas,
 his petition for divorce against Lizzie
 C. Holmes.

The petitioner, after setting up his residence in Ohio for the year last past and his bona fide residence in Marion county, alleges that he was married to the defendant on or about July 2, 1883,
 and that no children have resulted from that union.

The plaintiff says further that ever since his marriage to defendant he has conducted himself as a faithful and dutiful husband and has at all times properly maintained and supported the defendant to the best of his ability.

Notwithstanding the same, said defendant, the plaintiff alleges, in disregard of her marital duties, has abandoned the bed, home and support of plaintiff and is now living separately
 apart from plaintiff and is now residing with her parents in Cuyahoga county, Ohio, and refuses to return to or live with plaintiff and has declared to him her intentions not to return to or live with plaintiff or cohabit with him wherefore plaintiff prays that he may be divorced from the defendant.

Indorsed on the petition is the acknowledge of service of summons and the enter of appearance by defendant.

THEIR ANNUAL.

The Tally Wags Invite Their Friends to Their Fourth Anniversary.

This morning elegantly engraved invitations were issued by the Tally Wags to their friends accompanied by cards giving notice that carriagequestion to convey the club's guests to the scene of its entertainment.

The invitation read as follows:
 You are invited to attend
 the Fourth Anniversary of the Tally Wag Club.

Friday, November the eighth,
 eighteen hundred and ninety-five,
 Marion, Ohio,
 New Kerr House.

The Tally Wags are noted for giving most elegant and elaborate entertain-

 that the present affair will be any less enjoyable or run on a scale less magnificent than has its predecessors.

MAY LOSE AN EYE

Jacob Krause Meets With an Accident
 at Lindsey & Lawrence's.

Jacob Krause, living in West Marion,
 was the victim of a very serious accident Monday while ripping out lumber
 at Lindsey & Lawrence's mill.

Krause was working away at the lumber when the revolving saw caught a piece of timber to fly up, striking him
 in the eye.

He was immediately conveyed to his home and Dr. Denman called, but it is hardly probable that the eye can be saved.

POLICE COURT NEWS

There were twenty-two tramps in the city prison over Monday night and they were a tough-looking gang. They are coming this year in greater numbers than ever before, and it was necessary to have the counsel built a place for them. All of the tramps, however, that lodged at the prison Monday night
 were not there of their own accord, for the police corralled seven of them and locked them in the cells on the charge of being drunk. They had a camp between the Erie and Big Four tracks down near the Standard Oil company's plant and had "rusted the car" until they were all pretty drunk. Two of them could hardly walk as the police escorted them up street, and it was with difficulty that they were all landed at the prison. This morning they were released and ordered out of the city.

Sunday night Mayor Nichols secured a job for seven tramps but they did not remain here to work. Every tramp who applies for lodging is asked if he could work if he could get a job, and
 of them, has said yes up to date,
 but none of them have worn themselves out looking for jobs.

SICK AND CONVALESCENT.

Mrs. Nannie May is reported to be ill at her home on Mt. Vernon avenue.
 A son of Levi Englehart is suffering
 a very serious attack of diphtheria.
 Miss S. Carpenter, of North State street, is on the sick list, suffering an attack of malarial fever.

John Abbott, one of Steamy Shoelace boys who has been on the sick list for the past week, is no better.

Ed Rayburn from Chattanooga, Tenn., on an extended stay, was reported at the point of death at his brother's home in Woodland Monday. He has consumption.

Dr. C. Parson's study is reported slightly better, but is in a very weak
 and critical condition, nevertheless,
 it is expected to attempt to bring him to Marion.

A MONSTROUS BEAST

SAID TO BE PROWLING AROUND THE WOODS NEAR ESPYVILLE.

Henry Johnson Says That He Saw the Thing—The Incredible Don't Take Much Stock in the Story, but They Don't Go Out at Night.

A monstrous large animal is said to be in hiding in the big woods near Espyville, and it has been seen on one or two occasions recently by farmers who happened to be out late. Henry Johnson, who resides in that vicinity,
 states that he got a look at the monster
 the other night, while it was passing through a clearing, but can not give a very good description of it, but some of the less enthusiastic residents of that locality are of the opinion that it is nothing more than a large dog.

On the other hand there are people who claim to have seen the strange thing, and give a description of it that comes as near representing a hyena as anything else. There are those, however, who will swear that they have seen something, what that something is they cannot state, but that it is an animal that is entirely foreign to this part of the country, and that it is roaming the country in that section. Many in the neighborhood are inclined to laugh at the report and allege that their vision is blurred by the heavy notations of much red liquor, and that there is nothing in the woods out of the ordinary in the animal line.

Don't forget the display of children's hats at Mrs. Jennie Thomas Wednesday.

UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Smalley Takes the Motion to Confirm Short Line Sale.

special to the DAILY STAR.]

BRYANS, O., Oct. 29.—The hearing of the motion to confirm the Short Line
 sale came up today before Judge Smalley. After listening to attorneys for the road urging confirmation, and Judge Beiser, of Sandusky, and Walter
 Kiehl, of Lima, asking further time, Judge Smalley took the matter under advisement until next Monday.

FINIS.

Love, bearing many burdens through the world.

Came to the place where burdens are laid down.

Smiling she stretched her patient hands for more.

"These things are past," said one, "take now
 thy crown!"

Love, always humble, when most beautiful,
 drew back, as if such glorification to deplore,
 to whom the crown of being is to love the more.

THE CAR GHOST.

All draped with blue denim—the seaside cottage of my friend, Sara Pyne.
 She asked me to go there with her when she opened it to have it set in order for the summer. She confessed that she felt a trifle nervous at the idea of entering it alone. And I am always ready for an excursion. So much blue denim rather surprised me, because blue is not complimentary to Sarah's complexion—she always wears some shade of red, by preference. She perceived my wonder, she is very nearsighted, and therefore sees everything, by some sort of sixth sense.

"You do not like my portieres and curtains and table covers," said she.
 "Neither do I. But I did it to accommodate. And now he rests well in his grave, I hope."

"Whose grave, for pity's sake?"
 "Mr. J. Billington Price's."

"And who is he? He doesn't sound interesting."

"Then I will tell you about him,"
 said Sara, taking a seat directly in front of one of these curtains. "Last autumn
 I was leaving this place for New York,
 traveling on the fast express train
 known as the Flying Dutchman. Of course I thought of the Flying Dutchman and Wagner's musical setting of the uncommon legend, and how different things are in these days of steam, etc. Then I looked out of the window at the landscape, the horizon that seemed to wheel
 in a great curve as the train sped. Every now and then I had an impression at the tail of the eye that a man was sitting in a chair three or four numbers in front of me on the opposite side of the car. Each time that I saw this shape
 I looked at the chair and ascertained that it was unoccupied. But it was an odd trick of vision. I raised my head and the chair showed emptier than before. There was nobody in it certainly. But the more I knew that it was vacant the more plainly I saw the man, always with the corner of my eye. It made me nervous.

"When passengers entered the car, I almost lost the sight of the chair. What would happen if they should? A bag was put in the chair—that made me uncomfortable. The bag was removed at the next station. Then a bag was placed in the seat. It began to laugh as though some one had gently tickled it. There was something odd about that chair—it was something odd when I was a way from it, the impression was strong upon me that someone was sitting there watching me."

"Really, it would not do to hamper it, so I reached the electric car, asked the porter to bring me a table and chairs, and sitting by a pack of cards, I was puzzling off with a couple of friends. I was puzzling to get a card out of the pack. Where can it be? I turned to myself. A voice behind me prompted, 'Play the four of diamonds on the table, if you can do it.' I looked at the table. The four of diamonds was a beautiful card, a card with a white center, a blue and a yellow border, and one of the most esthetic. Who has spoken? 'Play up the floor, and am," repeated the voice.

 I looked fearfully over my shoulder. At first I saw a bluish cloud, like cigar smoke, but no person. Then the vision cleared, and I saw a young man whom I knew by a subtle intuition to be the occupant, seen and not seen, of chair
 No. 13. Evidently he was a traveling salesman—and a ghost. Of course a drummer's ghost sounds ridiculous—they're so extremely alive! Or else you would expect a dead drummer to be particularly dead and not "walk." This was a most commonplace looking absolutely nothing, like a white shirt. At the same time his face had an expression of utter despair and horror which made him still more prepossessing. Of course it is not nice to let a stranger speak to one, even on so impersonal a topic as a few of diamonds. But a ghost—there can't be any rule of etiquette about talking with a ghost! My dear, it was dreadful. That forward creature showed me how to play all the cards and then begged me to lay them out again, in order that he might give me some clever points. I was too much amazed and distressed to speak; I could only place the cards at his suggestion. This I did so as not to appear to be listening to the em-py air, and he supposed to be a crazy woman. Presently the ghost spoke again and told me his story.

"Madam," he said, "I have been riding back and forth on this car ever since Feb. 23, 189—seven months and 11
 days. All this time I have not exchanged a word with any one. For a drummer that is pretty hard, you may believe.
 You know the story of the Flying Dutchman? Well, that is very nearly my case. A curse is upon me and will not be removed until some kind soul—but I'm getting ahead of my text. That day there were four of us, traveling for different houses. One of the boys was in wool, one in baking powder, one in boots and shoes and myself in cotton goods. We met on the road, took seats together and fell into talking shop.
 Those fellows told big lies about their sales. Washington's birthday though it was, the baking powder man raised the amount of the bills of goods which he had sold better than a whole can of his stuff could have done. I admired the straight truth, that I had not yet been able to make a sale. And then I saw him in a light, muffled, clapper, sylver, velvet trimmings, but a great, round, beaver looking out—oh at I would see a case of blue denim on that trip if it took me forever. We became friendly talk, and when the train stopped at Evening we went out to have a refreshment. It is good there, you know—don't you? I forgot that I was speaking to a lady. Well, we had to run back and I used my foot, fell over the wheels, and the next thing I knew I was lying on the ground, my head under a wheel, my arms and legs stretched out, and I was dead. I was lying on the ground, my head under a

It was H. E. Hill's pleasure to come home on the American liner, St. Paul, on her maiden voyage, which she made in 6 days, 14 hours and 45 minutes, including a delay of 21 hours, caused by a breakdown in midocean, and the return voyage was also marred by the accidental killing of a deck hand while the vessel was leaving Southampton. Mr. Hill states that he settled the Mulrenen estate satisfactorily but prefers not to mention what was done in the Holmes matter for the present.

BURN POCAHONTAS COAL.

A PARODY ON LONGFELLOW'S EXCELSIOR.

The shades of night were falling fast,
As through the streets of Marion passed,
A kid, who bore, all lettered nice,
A banner bearing this device,

"BURN POCAHONTAS COAL!"

His brow was hid; his eye beneath,
Gazed on a "snipe" between his teeth,
And like an empty coal hod rung
The accents of that urchin's tongue,

"BURN POCAHONTAS COAL!"

In liquor stores he saw the light,
In drug stores all the bottles bright;
He loafed around the old jail door,
While hundreds read the sign he bore,

"BURN POCAHONTAS COAL!"

"Oh, stay," the young girl said, "and here Partake of meat and drink to cheer."
He raised his arm and pointed high,
And she looked up and made reply,

"BURN POCAHONTAS COAL!"

"Beware some certain streets, beware;
They sell poor coal and fool you there!"
This was the watchman's last good night,
But still he kept that sign in sight—

"BURN POCAHONTAS COAL!"

At break of day, with shoeless feet,
The kid was found on Center street;
Beside him lay the well-worn sign
Besmeared with mud—BUT NOT THE LINE,

"BURN POCAHONTAS COAL!"

There in the morning, cold and gray,
Wrapt in slumber the urchin lay,
And from the crowd that loitered near,
Escaped a voice that all could hear:

"BURN POCAHONTAS COAL!"

This was the maid that asked the kid
To eat, ere down the street he slid,—
John Smith's old girl, with heart and soul,
In sunlight on a lump of coal,

SWEETHEARTS.

By A. CONAN DOYLE.

(Copyright 1895 by the Author.)

It is difficult for the general practitioner who sits among his patients both morning and evening and sees them in their homes between ten and twelve for one little daily treat of clearly an hour to walk out between shuttered shops when it is chilly, but clear, and all things are sharply outlined as in a frost. It is in such a moment that a chance of a lifetime may be gained. One has the privilege to one's own and even the most common thing takes on an ever recurring freshness as a new discovery and lamp and shadow and all wakened to the new day. Then even an inland city may seem to be a beautiful and fertile in its smile of nature.

But it was on the 29th of August in a town that was lovely enough were it not for its gloomy and gloomy. And who cares for the town when one can sit on the bench at the headland and look out over the huge blue bay and the yellow summer that curves before it. I loved it when its great face was called with the fishing boats, and I loved it when the ships went past for out a little flock of white and no hull with topsails curved like a bodice so stateful and demure. But most of all I loved it when no trace of man marred the majesty of nature and when the sunbeams slanted down on it from between the drifting clouds. Then I have seen the further edge of the bay in the gray shading under the clouds while my headland was golden and the sea gleamed upon the beach and struck deep through the green waves beyond showing up the purple patches where the beds of seaweed are lying. Such a morning as that with the wind in his hair and the sun on his lips and the cry of the eddy gulls in his ear, may send a man back braced afresh to the work of a sickroom and the dead drab weariness of practice.

It was on such another day that I first saw my old man. He came to my bench just as I was leaving it. My eye must have picked him out even in a crowded street, for he was a man of large frame and fine presence, with something of distinction in the set of his lip and the pose of his head. He limped up the winding path leading heavily on his stick, as though those great shoulders had become too much at last for the failing limbs that bore them. As he approached my eyes caught a note of danger—signal—that faint bluish tinge in nose and lip which tells of a laboring heart.

"The sea is a little trying, sir," said I, "speaking as a physician, I should say that you would do well to rest here before you go further."

He looked at me with a steady old world flash and seated himself upon the bench. Seeing that he had no wish to speak, I was silent also, but I could not help watching him out of the corner of my eye, for he was such a wonderful survival of the early half of the century, with his low crowned, curly brimmed hat, his black skin tie which fastened with a buckle at the back, and above all, his large, fleshy, clean shaven face, shot with its mesh of wrinkles. Those eyes, ere they had grown dim, had looked out from the box seat of mail coaches and had seen the knots of navy change in him during the last 24 hours, and all for the worse. The face seemed more heavy and more wrinkled, while that ominous vaporous tinge was more pronounced as he panted up the hill. The clean lines of his cheek and chin were marred by a day's growth of gray stubble, and his large shapely head had lost something of the brave carriage which had struck me when first I glanced at him.

He had a letter there, the same, or another but still in a woman's hand, and over this he was moping and mumbling in his senile fashion, with his brow puckered and the corners of his mouth drawn down like those of a fretting child. So I left him, with a vague wonder as to who he might be and why a single spring day should have wrought such a change upon him.

So interested was I that next morning I was on the lookout for him. Sure enough, at the same hour I saw him coming up the hill but very slowly with a bent back and a heavy head. It was shocking to me to see the change in him as he approached.

I am afraid that our air does not agree with you, sir," I ventured to remark.

But it was as though he had no heart for talk. He tried, as I thought, to make some fitting reply, but it slipped off into a mumble and silence. How bent and weak and old he seemed—ten years older at the best than when first I had seen him! It went to my heart to see this sweet old fellow wasting away before my eyes. There was the eternal tinge which he unfolded with his shaking tongue. Who was this woman whose words moved him so? Some daughter, perhaps, or grand daughter, who should have been the light of his home instead of—

I smiled to find how bitter I was growing and how swiftly I was weaving a romance round an unshaven old man and his correspondence. Yet all day he lingered in my mind, and I had fiftieth guesses of those two trembling, blue veined knuckled hands, with the finger resting between them.

I had hardly hoped to see him again. Another day's decline must, I thought, hold him to his room if not to his bed. Great, then, was my surprise when, as I approached my bench, I saw that he was already there. But as I came up to him I could scarce believe that it was indeed the same man. There were the curly brimmed hat, and the shining stock, and the horn glasses, but where were the "stop and the gray stubbled, pitiable face." He was clear shaven and firm limbed, with a bright eye and a head that posed itself upon his shoulders like an eagle on a rock. His back was as straight and square as a grand old tree, and he switched at the pebbles with his stick in his exuberant vitality. In the buttonhole of his well brushed black coat there glinted a golden brooch, and the corner of a dusty red silk handkerchief lapped over from his breast pocket. He might have been the eldest son of the wayward creature who had sat there the morning before.

"Good morning, sir, good morning!" he cried, with a merry waggle of his cane.

"Good morning!" I answered. "How beautiful the bay is looking!"

Yes, sir, but you should have seen it just before the sun rose."

"What, you have been here since then?"

"I was here when there was scarce light to see the path."

"You are a very early riser."

"On occasion, sir, on occasion." He cocked his eye at me as if to gauge whether I were worthy of his confidence. "The fact is, sir, that my wife is coming back to me today."

I suppose that my face showed that I did not quite see the force of the explanation. My eyes, too, may have given him assurance of sympathy, for he moved quite close to me and began speaking in a low, confidential voice, as if the matter were of such weight, but that even the sea gulls must be kept out of our conversation.

ABOUT SLEEPLESSNESS.

WHAT IT IS A SIGN OF.

One of the Most Common Symptoms of Kidney Disease, Sometimes of Brain Trouble.

How It Can Be Cured Without Dangerous Drugs and Opium.

Sleeplessness is more common than it should be. It is a sign of dangerous sickness, which may turn out badly.

Sleeplessness means either one or both of two things. First, kidney trouble; second, brain trouble.

But if there is brain trouble, it is probably a complication of the kidney trouble.

Bright's disease, the most dangerous kidney trouble there is, is generally accompanied by sleeplessness.

Nine times out of ten the sufferer from Bright's disease doesn't find out that he has it until it is almost too late to be cured.

The symptoms are so like unimportant sickness that you don't think you need a doctor, and so things go on until the doctor can't help you.

Even then Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills would probably be able to cure you.

But that is another matter. To return to sleeplessness.

No one can do without sleep for more than a few days.

Sleeplessness is a drain on your brain and your vitality. It must be stopped or something will give way.

Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills will cure sleeplessness.

They do it by curing the kidney, by taking away the cause of the whole trouble, by purifying the blood.

Asparagus has a special effect on the kidneys, as every one who has eaten it knows.

This effect is strengthened and made more powerful in Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills.

If it is your kidneys which cause your sleeplessness, Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills will cure it by toning them up and giving them fresh life and strength.

If it is your brain, by cleansing and renewing the blood, through the improved action of the kidneys, Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills will cure the brain by giving it fresh nourishment and new life.

To be healthy and to do your best work, you must have enough sleep.

When you are losing it, a few doses of Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills will cure you and bring rest to your tired body and mind.

Besides sleeplessness, the symptoms of kidney trouble are headache, nervousness, shortness of breath, evil forebodings, loss of flesh, swelling of the feet and ankles, pain in the back.

All these symptoms are caused by sick kidneys. All of them can be cured by Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills.

When no other drugs or medicines will give you relief, Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills will.

The preparation of asparagus from which they are made (and which is made by a special process for these pills) has never been known to fail.

Dr. Hobb's Spargus Kidney Pills are for sale at all druggists for 50 cents a box or will be sent postpaid to any address on receipt of price.

A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

Please write for free pamphlet containing full particulars about the kidneys, Hobb's Medicine Co., Chicago or San Francisco.

was that the was a shade too slender the was above me in station, you know—I am a clerk and she the daughter of my employer. Oh it was quite a romance, I give you my word, and I would her, and somehow I have never got over the freshness and the wonder of it! To think that that sweet, lovely girl has walked by my side all through life, and that I have been able—

He stopped suddenly, and I glanced round at him in surprise. He was shaking all over, in every fiber of his great body. His hands were clanking at the workbench and his feet shuffling on the gravel. I saw what it was. He was trying to—

I saw that he put out both hands, trying to rise, but was so excited that he could not. I half extended my hand, but a higher courtesy constrained me to draw it back again and turn my face to the sea. An instant afterward he was up and hurrying down the path.

A woman was coming toward us. She was quite a case, before he had seen her—30 yards at the utmost. I know not if she had ever been as he described her or whether it was but some idea which he carried in his brain. The person upon whom I looked was tall, it is true, but she was thick and shapeless, with a ruddy, full blown face and a skirt grotesquely gathered up. There was a green ribbon in her hair which jarred upon my eyes, and her blouse-like bodice was full and clumsy. And this was the lovely girl, the ever youthful! My heart sank as I thought how little such a woman might appreciate him, how unworthy she might be of his love.

THAT ANGELIC BOY.

THE END

That dreadful boy!" sighed his wife.

Mr. Carhart looked apprehensively round.

"Oh he won't hear," said Mrs. Carhart. "He's up stairs, taking his afternoon nap."

And the boy?

"Horrid little beast!" cried Mrs. Carhart with very decided emphasis. "He's chasing the cat through the parlors. My poor carpets!"

My dear," said Mr. Carhart soothingly, "try to be patient. Mr. Clymer's visit can't last forever."

"I thought it would I should commit suicide," said the lady hysterically. "Hear that dreadful crash! I know it's one of my vases!"

"Never mind, Lucille, never mind! The money Mr. Clymer will leave us if he is properly managed, will buy enough to furnish a dozen houses. Just think of it, $300,000, and not a relative in the world!"

"Except this boy whom he has adopted."

"Except this boy of course. But an adopted child isn't like a blood relative. Mr. Clymer has himself assured me that he will leave me a nominal sum to Gustavus Adolphus. Hush! Here he comes now!"

"Well, Gustavus, my boy," said Mr. Carhart, assuming a playful air of welcome, "what are you up to now?"

"I want some jam," was his imperious demand.

Mrs. Carhart, impelled thereto by a glance from her husband, turned to the preserve closet, while the lawyer looked more keenly at the boy.

"Why, what's the matter with your hand, Gustavus?" he asked.

"Cut it!" was the terse reply. "Cut jumped through that there glass thing in the garden, and I was a hunk of her out when I cut my hand."

My grapes!" ejaculated the lawyer, with a slight gasp for breath as he remembered the wager he had laid with his next neighbor as to the earliest grapes of the season.

What have you in your pocket, my boy?" he asked, striving to speak as politely as possible.

"Pecoles," grinned Gustavus Adolphus, with his mouth full of strawberry jam. "I picked every one."

"You little wretch!" began the lawyer, but the continuance of old Mr. Clymer checked the outburst of well deserved wrath.

"Don't be troublesome, Gustavus," said old Mr. Clymer, with a tap of his cane upon the floor.

"Troublesome, my good sir!" said Mr. Carhart. "If you only knew how the light of innocent infancy brightens up this dull old house!"

"Gustavus, love, don't swing by those lace curtains," said Mrs. Carhart apprehensively. "I'm afraid you'll hurt yourself if they come down!"

"With its musical echoes," went on Mr. Carhart, "you wouldn't check the dear boy. How often my wife says to me, 'Oh, if we had such a lovely child!'"

"Ah," said old Mr. Clymer slyly, "indeed!"

Crash went the curtains and cornice, and down came the namesake of Sweden's illustrious king, breaking a gilded chair and overturning a stand of flowers in his fall.

Great was the family regret, and most ostentatiously displayed, when Mr. Clymer announced his intention to depart.

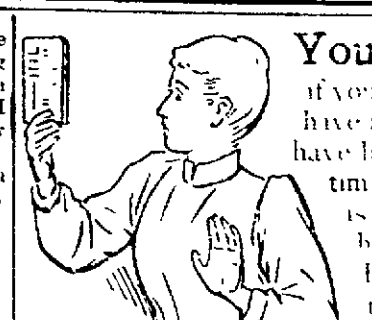

"We shall be quite lost without you," said Mrs. Carhart.

"We shall miss the boy dreadfully," chimed in Mr. Carhart.

"Shall you really?" demanded Mr. Clymer, nauding in the act of scrambling his valise.

"Can you doubt it, my dear friend?"

"Suppose, then, that I leave Gustavus Adolphus with you for a month or so?" said the old gentleman. "I shall be traveling around from place to place, and a boy like that would be in the way. If you would just as soon—"

You Must be Mistaken

If you think you've used Pearlina, and have any fault to find with it. It must have been something else. That something is so happy because Pearlina is so well known and so popular, it has become a household name. People say "Pearlina" when they mean anything that may claim to help in washing. Perhaps you haven't noticed—and that's just where the trouble is. If you've been using the worthless or dangerous imitations, no wonder you're out of patience. But don't make Pearlina suffer for it. Don't give up too soon because your disgusted with the poor.

NEXT YEAR'S OUTPUT

Decided Upon by the Marion Manufacturing Company.

The directors of the Marion Manufacturing company met Monday evening and completed the work of the forenoon. The directors issued a six-per-cent scrip dividend and laid out the line of work for the next year. The coming year is a promising one and the present outlook is a prosperous one for those holding stock in the concern.

The first installment for next year will be seventy-five threshers and seventy-five engines, and then more will be ordered from time to time as needed. Work on the first installment will be commenced at once in order that it may be completed for the spring trade.

The same foremen were appointed for the various departments of the works that have had charge of them heretofore, and it was also decided to add some new machinery to the plant.

Mothers and children are invited to attend the special display of children's hats at Mrs. Jennie Thomas' Wednesday.

A THIEF'S CONSCIENCE

Asserts Itself When It Once Gets Into Marion Atmosphere.

The Kanton News of Monday says: John Fry, who stole $90 from Frank Hamilton, his employer, and skipped out came back yesterday having walked the entire distance from Marion.

It seems that Fry bought a ticket to Binghamton, N. Y., but only got as far as Marion where he got drunk and has been there ever since he left. He grew repentant while there and concluded to come home and give Mr. Hamilton the money he had left. $90. He took $81.35 when he started but has promised to work out the balance so Mr. Hamilton will not prosecute him. Fry says he does not know what became of the ticket he bought to New York.

A Complete Surprise.

Little Bessie Stout was very agreeably surprised Monday by her teacher and little class-mates and other little friends who assembled at her home and reminded her that she had reached her six birthday. Light refreshments were served, after which she was presented with many handsome and useful presents from her little friends.

A very enjoyable time was had, after which the little folks all departed for their respective homes, wishing the little hostess many more such happy birthdays.
